Research has revealed two thirds of UK adults have missed out on family and friends' events due to restrictions.

And with the country having a lot of catching up to do, the new tool shows you where you should meet to avoid one of you having to travel further than the other.

You can type up to three locations into the calculator, based on where your loved ones live, and the tool, created by Premier Inn, will show you the perfect half-way location for a catch-up for up to four groups.

The tool is also populated with nearby attractions, lots of which are free, along with locations for nearby hotels for overnight stays.

Struggling to decide where to meet

It comes after a survey revealed 65 per cent of UK adults who have friends and family living more than 100 miles away struggle to decide where to meet each other.

Meanwhile, almost half of the respondents – 46 per cent - have put off

Research has revealed two thirds of UK adults have missed out on family and friends' events due to restrictions.

And with the country having a lot of catching up to do, the new tool shows you where you should meet to avoid one of you having to travel further than the other.

You can type up to three locations into the calculator, based on where your loved ones live, and the tool, created by Premier Inn, will show you the perfect half-way location for a catch-up for up to four groups.

The tool is also populated with nearby attractions, lots of which are free, along with locations for nearby hotels for overnight stays.

Struggling to decide where to meet

It comes after a survey revealed 65 per cent of UK adults who have friends and family living more than 100 miles away struggle to decide where to meet each other.

Meanwhile, almost half of the respondents – 46 per cent - have put off

Research has revealed two thirds of UK adults have missed out on family and friends' events due to restrictions.

And with the country having a lot of catching up to do, the new tool shows you where you should meet to avoid one of you having to travel further than the other.

You can type up to three locations into the calculator, based on where your loved ones live, and the tool, created by Premier Inn, will show you the perfect half-way location for a catch-up for up to four groups.

The tool is also populated with nearby attractions, lots of which are free, along with locations for nearby hotels for overnight stays.

Struggling to decide where to meet

It comes after a survey revealed 65 per cent of UK adults who have friends and family living more than 100 miles away struggle to decide where to meet each other.

Meanwhile, almost half of the respondents – 46 per cent - have put off
